Northwest's future lies in hands of new leader

Hubbard looks ahead with confidence

BY PENNY J. BROWN
Editor-in-chief

President Dean L. Hubbard, though dressed in a conservative dark-blue suit and tie, a distinct red silk handkerchief neatly pressed in the upper left-hand pocket of his jacket, didn't quite yet seem suited to the formality of his office in the Administration Building. Sitting comfortably on the couch, he spoke confidently of his "mission" for the future of Northwest.

"When I first visited this campus, the level of optimism and enthusiasm really impressed me," Northwest's ninth president said. "I hope to build upon that."

Hubbard succeeds Dr. B.D. Owens, who resigned from the university upon the expiration of his contract June 30 to pursue a career in management consulting in Tampa, Fla. Before being selected from a group of more than 100 candidates, Hubbard served as president for Union College in Lincoln, Ne., an independent liberal arts college of more than 1,000 students. Prior to that, he held a position as Union College's academic dean for four years.

As a leader, Hubbard describes himself as the intuitive type. However, he believes strongly in a clear statement of mission and goals. Northwest is ready for this type of leadership, he said.

Briefly, his plan consists of a rational planning approach: focusing on the desired outcome rather than "just reacting to force and fad," he explained. "We must attempt to shape our own future."

Hubbard said he is not yet willing to apply this theory to specifics concerning Northwest. "I'm still in the exploratory stage and I couldn't very well make changes without bias," he explained. "Each university is unique and I want to have an open mind."

One area of his theory he was willing to discuss was the establishment of a university broadbase steering committee designed to create goals for the university. The committee, which will be chaired by Hubbard, will consist of members of the Board of Regents, administration, faculty, staff, student body and the Maryville community.

He said he also intends to increase Northwest's resources through increased private donations. A task, he said, he finds exciting and enjoyable. "I like to help people dream dreams, and people like to give to dreams," he said.

Hubbard, who holds a Ph.D. from Stanford University, brings to Northwest an openness and willingness to communicate; a trait he established at Union College through community involvement. "I'd like to have a comfortable open relationship (with students and faculty) and I hope the information flows freely," he said.

Faculty morale problems he feels can be avoided if the level of communication is increased; allowing faculty members to express their views in shaping the future of the institution.

"The faculty (of Northwest) seems to have a high morale," he said. "I was impressed by their willingness to help serve the institution."

As an initial establishment of communications, Hubbard plans a "show and tell" ("for lack of a better word," he added): a planned visitation by him to each department. "These types of things are fascinating," he said. "It gives faculty members a chance to show off

DEAN HUBBARD ANSWERS questions during the press conference on June 26.

First lady contributes significantly

If the role of wife of the university president seems like it might be no job at all, think again. Alita Hubbard views her role as first lady of Northwest seriously. "A lot goes into the care and feeding of the president. That's my first responsibility," she said earnestly.

The soft-spoken but confident Hubbard, who, with her new husband Dean L. Hubbard, university president, moved to Maryville in late August said she found the people of Maryville genuinely warm and that she looks forward to getting to know them.

She said that although they were a bit reluctant to leave Union College in Lincoln, Ne. due to the fact that it broke up their family, she was pleased that her husband was chosen for the Northwest president's job. "I was very pleased. I feel that Dean is very capable and that he was a good choice for Northwest now."

Hubbard held a secretarial job at Union College for a mail order catalog service that was created to increase the number of jobs for college students. "We provided finished goods and sometimes produced our own." She later was promoted to the head management position.

Presently, she has no interest in working at a nine-to-five job. "I'm enjoying not having to get up and go to work every morning," she said, smiling. She does, however, add that there is a possibility of her attending school while at Northwest. "It would be an excellent opportunity," she said.

However, she adds, her first responsibility is to Dr. Hubbard. "We are partners. Our family's life revolves around him, he's always been the dominant personality," she said. "There are many pluses to that—we've gotten to do a lot of traveling and meet a lot of interesting people."

Volunteer work also interests her. "I'd like to do volunteer work—not for a social reason, but because there is a need for it to be done, to make the world a better place to be," she said.

The Hubbards have two daughters: Melody, who is working toward her master's degree in Journalism, and Joy, a senior at Northwest; and a son, Paul, a senior business-computing major at Union College.

Hazing causes death at Texas A & M

COLLEGE STATION, TX--A Texas A & M University cadet was jarred from his bed and forced to do "motivational exercise" until he suffered a fatal heart stroke. Three juniors from his corps unit awakened Bruce Goodrich and his roommate at 2:30 a.m. to perform exercises including sit-ups, push-ups and running for almost an hour.

The 20 year old's heart stopped and could not be revived. The three students responsible for the harassing or hazing as it is better known, could be suspended or expelled if they're found guilty of violating university policy.

Discovery space shuttle breaks the ice

HOUSTON, TX--Neither rain nor ice could detain the space shuttle Discovery from its duty.

On Sept. 2, an ice build-up on the shuttle blocked lines which dump excess water overboard. The easy, but time-consuming solution was to turn the ship toward the sun. The only concern was that the ice would come off during re-entry and damage the ship's tiles.

Tropical storm hits the Philippines

PHILIPPINES--Tropical storm June has left 52 persons dead, 150,000 homeless and 68 dead or missing in the Northern Philippines and South Korea.

The tropical storm with winds reaching up to 60 mph has destroyed bridges, crops and homes. In the Philippines, the damage is estimated at $4 million.

Northwest joins national dry rush trend

BY CINDY MINER
News editor

This year, Northwest's fraternities are joining the nationwide trend: a dry rush.

The term dry rush means that no alcoholic beverages may be served at any rush functions. This will drastically change the format for rush functions from the previous years. "The rush functions that fraternities use will be different this year because of the fact that they will be non-alcoholic," said Jim Wyant, IFC sponsor.

Rush has been shortened to two weeks this year. Friday will be the last meeting to sign up on the rush list.

Student Senate appoints committee chairmen

BY CHRIS WAINWRIGHT
Staff writer

The appointment of committee chairmen and the resignation of the off-campus senator, Jason Sloan, were the main topics of business at the Student Senate meeting on Sept. 4.

Other business included discussion of Student Senate Court appointments, the selection of a student to the Board of Regents, and the appointment of further officers to various positions.

The meeting opened with the acceptance of the minutes from the Aug. 28 meeting. Then the various committee

Bids will go out Sept. 17.

"Guidelines for this year's rush are vague," Jeff Thompson, Delta Chi said. Rushes must sign up by Friday, must not be first semester freshmen and must have a cumulative grade point average of 2.0.

Fraternities must have non-alcoholic rush functions. "It's not a 100 percent dry rush," Thompson said. "We're getting there, but it's not all the way, yet."

Despite the dry rush, fraternity members feel that rush will go well. "The dry rush is new to us all," said Jim Turner, IFC president. "We are all learning a lot, but I feel it will work out for the best in the end."

Other fraternity members agree with Turner. "Alcohol isn't our front line approach for getting people to pledge," said Thompson.

"The dry rush won't change the minds of people who are truly interested in rushing," said Dave Teeter, vice-president of Tau Kappa Epsilon. "It is an advantage because now we don't have to try and distinguish between who is really interested and who just wants to party."

However, some fraternity members feel that the dry rush will cause problems. "Before, rush parties that included alcohol drew perspective members to the fraternity," said Bob Barrett, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The dry rush presents each fraternity with the problem of finding other social functions to show rushees what the Greek system is about. Fraternities have used smokers in the past and will continue to use them.

According to the Tau Kappa Epsilon vice-president, a smoker is an opportunity for the fraternity to describe the benefits of joining the organization.

Although the guidelines have been set, no one has been assigned to police the functions. "Currently, the fraternities are on a self-regulated honor system," said Turner. "If there is pro-violation, action will be taken."

every facet of the academic departments."

Hubbard said he plans the same type of open relationship with the students. "I'd like to have a comfortable relationship with the students. To do this, I think I need to be with the students, visit with them where they are," he said.

He mentioned having "soup suppers" in his home, a sort of informal get-together in his home with students who have expressed an interest. "Pretty soon you get to know certain students on a personal basis, which is good," he said. Hubbard held similar get-togethers at Union College.

During the media conference on June 26, Hubbard told reporters and university personnel that he felt "teaching students how to learn" was important. He elaborated upon that concept. "Thirty-seven percent of those in the 18-65 age group are now going through a career transition. They need to know how to learn," he said, "how to cope with new information and how to secure and process that information by enhancing their communication skills." He said he feels this can be done by exposing students to teachers who are enthused.

As for the future of student enrollment at Northwest, Hubbard is optimistic. He said he feels the most effective way to combat a decline in enrollment is with a quality institution. "We need to look to potential students and speak to their needs. At the heart of it all is a good program; it's the best product going."

New dean

DeYoung sets goals for business school

Hands-on experience in the local community for business students is only one of Dr. Ron C. DeYoung's innovative ideas.

A former assistant dean of the college of business at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, DeYoung assumed the responsibilities of dean of the college of business and government at Northwest this summer.

Enthusiastic about his move to Maryville, DeYoung sees the college of business as being right for implementing change. He sees the strong, dedicated faculty of the business college as one of the biggest strengths, adding that this asset was a real incentive for him to come.

DeYoung has set his sights high for Northwest beginning with integration and recognition in the community. "Our faculty in the school of business should use the business community as a laboratory for their students," said DeYoung. He feels that the faculty has been ready for this type of integration if given the opportunity. He also thinks the school of business needs to stimulate community awareness of Northwest's students and programs. Quality business programs are in DeYoung's long-range plans as he aims for accreditation by the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. An in-depth self-study of the business faculty, their teaching strengths, professional commitment and the curriculum will help achieve this goal.

DeYoung sees the computer wave as an added challenge for business students. He wants "every student who graduates from Northwest in business to be as familiar with the computer as they are with a desk top calculator."

In 1970, DeYoung received a doctoral degree from Northern Illinois University and a master's degree in 1967, and a bachelor's degree in 1965 from Western Michigan University. While there, he was also involved with curriculum development in the college of business, fund raising and the design and development of the Fetzer Business Development Center.

In addition, he intends to develop a modern business curriculum to reflect the application of evolving knowledge in the production of goods and services, the behavioral and quantitative sciences for both domestic and world economy.

NORTHWEST STUDENTS GET acquainted at the freshman picnic.

DARIN EITMAN BEGINS one of several trips to his room.

What a week!

Campus survives whirlwind agenda

Orientation kicked off for 1043 first-time freshmen Wednesday evening with a cookout at Taylor Commons.

Following speeches given Thursday evening by various Northwest student leaders, a group ice-breaker was held. Friday, more ice-breaker events including an Almost Anything Goes competition were held. Later that evening, a comedy routine on how to survive in college was done by Ralph Schoenstein.

Saturday and Sunday were spent enjoying the last few days of summer. Several students attended the Green and White scrimmage Saturday.

Freshman response toward orientation was positive. Roger Keyserling, a freshman from Odessa, said, "It helped me establish friendships."

Rod Newberry from Kansas City, said he liked orientation, but that the events kept repeating themselves.

David Capps, from St. Joseph, liked the events because some of the people he met were in some of his classes. This made him feel more comfortable, he said.

Those who participated in freshman orientation this year saw an improvement over last year's. Rick Jacobsen, IRC Vice-president, said they knew what to expect from the students.

ENROLL IN AMERICA'S LARGEST MANAGEMENT TRAINING PROGRAM.

Becoming an officer in today's Army—which also includes the Army Reserve and Army National Guard—requires getting the right kind of management and leadership training.

What's the best way to get it? By enrolling in America's largest management training program—Army ROTC.

In the Army ROTC 4-year program, you'll acquire discipline of mind and spirit, and the ability to perform under pressure. We call it learning what it takes to lead.

It'll pay off, too. First, during your last two years of college, when you'll start receiving up to $1,000 a year.

And, most of all, on graduation day, when you receive a commission along with a college degree.

New Jersey stop is highlight

Springsteen goes home; Beck quits

COURTESY CASH BOX

Bruce Springsteen returned home to New Jersey recently to open a sold out, 10-day engagement at the Meadowlands' Brendan Byrne arena. The four-hour performance, including intermission, on night two was a celebration of soulful, no-frills, straight-ahead rock 'n' roll.

Bruce Springsteen works with the basic tools of rock. His songs are about cars, the road, the daily drudgery of work, hometown America, alienation and many other topics that have remained common to rock ever since Bill Haley first greased his spit curl. The instrumentation of the E Street Band—the churning organ, the honking tenor sax, the bass drum backbeat—is similarly time tested.

The highlights of the New Jersey performances were numerous. Many of the older songs—"Rosalita" for example—were done as anthems, with the entire audience encouraged to sing along. Other tunes such as "No Surrender" (from the "Nebraska" LP) were given simple declarative Dylanish readings.

"Dancing In The Dark," which is all over TV in Brian DePalma's number five music video, came to life on stage as Springsteen pulled a girl out of the front row to dance center stage with him. The warmth and love between Springsteen and his audience was genuine and overflowing throughout the long concert. When Springsteen marched headlong into the audience, one didn't have to worry for the performer's safety.

Coming from CBS/Fox Video this month are three titles of special note: They are "Alphabet City," "El Norte," and most notably Barbra Streisand's film effort, "Yentl." Not only does Streisand star in this ethnic period piece, she produced, co-wrote and directed it too. "Yentl" and "Alphabet City" will retail for $79.95 with "El Norte" retailing for $59.95. Also coming this month, RCA/Columbia will release "The Dresser," starring Albert Finney and Tom Courtney.

Guitar great Jeff Beck parted company with Rod Stewart after seven concerts on Stewart's current American tour. A spokesman for Beck indicated Beck and Stewart had been unable to agree on the way in which Beck would be permitted to perform. "Jeff feels that while Rod's portion of the show without Jeff is more than totally satisfying to Rod's fans, Jeff's own portion of the show with Rod will disappoint Jeff's fans," said the spokesman. "Those fans had been led to expect a 'special event' but it has not been possible for Beck to fulfill those expectations under the conditions offered him on the program."

The spokesman said the split occurred for purely artistic reasons and both performers remain friends. "Rod is a great person," adds Beck, "and one of the best performers around." Beck will return to New York to resume work on his upcoming Epic album "Get Working," produced by Nile Rodgers and scheduled for fall release.

IRS Records will release the long-awaited live album by the original ANIMALS this month. Entitled "Rip It To Shreds: Greatest Hits Live!," the LP features ANIMALS ERIC BURDON, CHAS CHANDLER, ALAN PRICE, JOHN STEEL and HILTON VALENTINE. The LP was recorded on New Year's Eve 1983 at London's Wembley Stadium, where the group shared the bill with the POLICE. During the '60s, the ANIMALS had 15 Top 50 singles, most of which appear on this album.

If you were listening to the latest STEPHEN STILLS release, "Right By You," and heard some familiar guitar passages, you had only to check the liner notes to find out it was none other than JIMMY PAGE. The ex-LED ZEPPLIN composer and guitarist contributes leads on three Stills' cuts and helps make "Right By You" one of the veteran singer-songwriter's most satisfying albums in years. The story goes that Stills caught sight of Page in a local L.A. nightclub and called up his label to make sure it was not an illusion. Atlantic first denied Page was in town but then gave in and Stills eventually got the man behind LED ZEPPELIN to get behind his guitar and rip it up for a while.

WHAT EVERY STUDENT SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN LEASING A TELEPHONE AND LEASING A CHICKEN.

Yes, there are differences. And we think you should know what they are. Ask yourself these questions.

WHEN YOU LEASE A CHICKEN, DO YOU GET THREE MONTHS FREE DURING THE SUMMER?

Probably not. But when you lease your telephone from AT&T this fall, you won't pay any lease charges next summer. You can use your phone at home, and bring it back to school in the fall.

DO LEASED CHICKENS COME IN A SELECTION OF COLORS AND STYLES?

No. Chickens don't come in many colors. But the AT&T telephone you lease this fall comes in a variety of colors and three popular styles.

ARE LEASED CHICKENS REPAIRED FREE?

Don't kid yourself. Repairing a chicken is a delicate process that requires the work of expensive professionals. However, in the off chance your AT&T leased telephone needs repairs, we'll fix it absolutely free when you visit any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

ARE LEASED CHICKENS SHIPPED DIRECTLY TO YOU?

Ship a chicken? Don't be silly. However, your AT&T leased telephone will be shipped directly to you after one call to 1-800-555-8111, or you can pick up your phone at any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

ONE FINAL QUESTION: DOES IT COST THE SAME TO LEASE A CHICKEN AS TO LEASE A TELEPHONE THIS FALL?

Hardly. While we have no hard data on the exact cost of leasing a chicken, we can tell you with some certainty that the cost of leasing a telephone this fall is far less than you might think.

The decision to lease a chicken or a telephone, of course, rests with you. But should you opt for the telephone, remember: you get three months free next summer, and you can take the phone home with you. There's a choice of colors and styles, free repair, and we'll ship you the phone or you can pick it up at any of our AT&T Phone Centers.

It doesn't cost much either. And that's something to crow about.

This offer is not valid for permanent year-round resident students. 7. The three free months will not begin until you have paid for the first nine months of your lease. 8. Despite several breakups and name changes for Crosby, Stills and Nash, the music is still the same. The trio proved its three-part harmony still blends together at the Aug. 24 concert stop at Sandstone.

Crosby, Stills and Nash opened the two-hour show with one of their biggest hits, Love the One You're With. And if anyone was loving the one they were with, it was the crowd loving the trio.

Most groups perform concerts with flashing lights, fancy costumes and fast prancing about the stage but Crosby, Stills and Nash were there solely to sing and entertain the 9,220 fans. The stage was simply set with instruments for the trio and five-man band. There were no puffs of smog, no hydrolic stage lifts or laser beams searching the audience. Crosby, Stills and Nash didn't need that to get the music across to the audience.

The group performed a string of oldies, Just A Song Before I Go, Southern Cross, Wasted On the Way, You Make It Hard. The trio also added some new songs to the concert circuit. Like many of their songs that have some sort of social or political message, Nash introduced Vote. It's a song that he says, "is to encourage all the 18 year olds to register." It isn't a bad song. It has a solid rhythm but the lyrics of "vote, vote, vote" got the message across after the first chorus.

Another song, a solo by Stephen Stills, holds promise. Stranger is already making its way up the charts and the video is shown on MTV. Stranger is one of those songs that you like to listen to, but if you had to dance to it, you wouldn't know where to start.

One song that stole the show was Cathedral. The introduction was a heavy pipe-organ sound that make you feel like judgement day was around the corner. Then Graham Nash started off with a "Wop-de-dee-do-whop and boom" thus ending the somber silence and sending David Crosby into a fit of rolling laughter on the stage floor. But Cathedral is a beautiful slow ballad that picks up the tempo quickly. It's hard to imagine how the group can spit out the words. You do not sleep through Cathedral.

The group performed two sets of songs with a 10-minute intermission in between. Crosby, Stills and Nash came out for one encore. The trio sang Carry On and without disappointing their fans, Teach Your Children. Actually the audience sang Teach Your Children with the lights turned on them.

Next to the lack of gimmicky wizardry, the age of the audience was most impressive. Of course there was the college group but also a group now in their 30's that grew up with Crosby, Stills and Nash. There were men and women at the concert in business suits looking like they had just gotten off work and other people in their 40's and 50's with graying hair, sitting in the reserved seats.

One audience member, Martha Dorsey, said her son brought her to the concert. She said she enjoys Crosby, Stills and Nash's music along with the music of other folk-rock singers like Gordon Lightfoot and Simon and Garfunkel.

"The music is beautiful to the ear. I like Southern Cross," Dorsey said.

Spanning a career of more than 20 years and playing to an audience with the same age gap, Crosby, Stills and Nash showed it's the music that really counts, not the technology behind it.

Sandstone brings summer stars

BY TERESA SCHUELKE

Sandstone. It almost sounds like a new paint color that Ford would use on its pick-up trucks. Or the color of nail polish. However, Sandstone isn't a color but more of a sound. You can't hear a sandstone but you can go to one and listen. Confused? Sandstone is the name of a new outdoor theater in Bonner Springs, Kan., near Kansas City.

The outdoor theater is built in a natural amphitheater setting. The theater was started in January but weather delayed the construction until March. After the ball started rolling in March, it only took 90 working days to finish Sandstone.

That's not to say Sandstone was a rush job. Phil Lobel, Mid-America operations manager for Feyline Presents, Inc., who books the concerts for Sandstone, said Sandstone is advanced. He compares it to the popular Starlight Theater in Kansas City. "Our stage is bigger. We have enough electrical power that we could have Genesis and Van Halen perform together and not have to worry if we could get the power." Lobel said Sandstone was designed especially for concerts but Starlight was designed to accompany theatrical work.

Sandstone is big. Reserved seating holds 3,000. Another 15,000 people can be accommodated on the terraced lawn. "It depends on the crowd on how many people we can get in here," Lobel said.

Lobel said they have been averaging about 7,600 people per show.

Sandstone is planning special ticket outlets for college students. The outlets would allow students to buy tickets for $10 each with a valid college I.D. Kevin O'Neill, Sandstone press agent, is checking into a special discount center for Northwest students.

'Cats face Washburn in opener

BY STEVE SAVARD
Staff writer

The Washburn University Ichabods will be the first obstacle for Vern Thomsen's 1984 Bearcat football team when they hit the Rickenbrode Stadium turf Saturday for a 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

The Ichabods certainly aren't a household name around Maryville but, they shouldn't be taken lightly. The team from Topeka brings some impressive credentials.

For openers, the Ichabods posted an 8-2 record in 1983 in route to capturing the Central States Intercollegiate Conference (CSIC) crown. That 8-2 mark carried Washburn to a No. 9 national ranking in NAIA Division I polls. What is more significant for the 'Cats is that Washburn is picked in pre-season polls again to win the CSIC title.

Coach George Tardiff's team features an experienced offense that is capable of putting points on the scoreboard. Washburn returns nine starters on offense.

The bulk of Tardiff's offense is a solid running game, with his biggest weapon being junior tailback Dino DeLisa. DeLisa became the first Washburn running back ever to gain 1,000 yards in a season last year. In all, DeLisa rushed for 1,185 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Blocking for DeLisa will be an experienced offensive line that returns four starters. Center was the only position hurt by graduation and junior Marc Milner seems to be the likely replacement.

The quarterback position is also up for grabs as five newcomers are battling it out. Washburn can establish a passing game to complement its already solid running game.

Defensively, the Ichabods have a lot to live up to if they are to match last season. Their 1983 defense was the CSIC's stingiest, yielding just 13.2 points per game.

Up front, Washburn is strong.

Returning are all-CSIC first team picks Dan Remboldt, defensive end and Tim Schlegel, linebacker. However, the question mark on defense is the secondary. Three starters from the 1983 squad graduated leaving strong safety Tony McDonald as the lone returning starter. Tardiff realizes that his young secondary will be tested from the start Saturday against the "Air Northwest" passing attack.

"If the secondary holds up, we could be better defensively than we were last year," Tardiff said. "Our team goal is to prove that last year was no fluke. I think Washburn is for real."

On Saturday, the Bearcats will find out if Tardiff is correct. Next week the Bearcats travel to Allendale, Mich. to face Grand Valley State.

DAN ANDERSON HAULS in a pass in last week's Green/White Scrimmage.

Spikers return seven

Volleyball at it's best! That's what can be expected from the Bearkittens this season. The 14 member team has the experience of seven returning players, five of which are starters. Seven freshmen make up the remainder of the team.

The Bearkittens previewed their season Tuesday night at the Green/White scrimmage. Coach Susie Homan divided the players into two teams in which four games were played.

The 'Kittens begin their official season this weekend when they host the Bearkitten Invitational. It will be an eight-team tourney. Play begins Sept. 7 at 4:00 p.m. in Lamkin Gym.

Homan feels confident that the 'Kittens can win the tournament.

Thomsen beats Quinn; wins quarterback job

BY JEFF MCMILLEN
Sports editor

"Air Northwest" has become the descriptive tag that has stuck with Bearcat football as it emerges into the MIAA conference chase under second year coach Vern Thomsen.

With Thomsen at the helm, the 'Cats set 31 school offensive records last season, 28 of which came via the forward pass in a 5-6-0 campaign.

Those records were written on the books due largely to the success of quarterback Brian Quinn hooking up with wide receivers Steve Hansley, Dan Anderson, Keith Nelson, the MIAA's second, third and fourth leading receivers, respectively. Add to that group Brian Shaw who was slowed by injuries but has produced noteworthy receptions himself.

Quinn, a fifth-year senior, was a second team all-MIAA selection enroute to producing the greatest single season passing performance ever for Northwest. Hansley heads into his junior year as a first team MIAA pass catcher and Nelson, a senior, was a second team member. Anderson grabbed an honorable mention award.

Not only do those five players return, but the whole starting offensive line is back, and two new faces in Robert Wilson and Marcus Chester were recruited at running back to turn the offense into a flexible machine that can strike by land or by air.

As close to perfection as this offense seems, there has been a shocking change. Quinn, despite his records, has been replaced under center in favor of Mark Thomsen, the coaches son. Senior Doug Ruse, also a starter at one time, was another candidate for the position, which is probably the deepest on the squad.

Thomsen, the biggest, strongest, and fastest quarterback of the three, fought tooth-and-nail to get the job.

"We opened it up (the quarterback position). Mark won it," Thomsen said of his son. "It is always tough to make a big change like that. It's even tougher when it's a relative. The move doesn't mean Thomsen has lost his faith in Quinn. "Brian Quinn is a proven quarterback and a class act. He's listed number two on the chart. He'll probably play Saturday."

"They all handled it well," said Thomsen of the three. "We've got the three best quarterbacks in the MIAA."

Classic starts season

BY JEFF MCMILLEN
Sports editor

This fall's edition of the men's and women's cross country squads will take off into action this Saturday morning as the hosts of the Northwest Distance Classic, starting with the women at 10:00 and the men following at 11:00. Both races will begin and end at Rickenbrode Stadium.

The women, coached by Pam Medford, lost last year's top runner, who transferred to University of Nebraska-Omaha. However this year the girls have an even 10 on a team made up of four sophomores and six freshman.

However, Medford is not worried about the size and inexperience of her team. "It's not a small number," she said. "All you need is seven runners to compete."

Although the majority of the runners are freshmen, Medford said they were "doing quite well." In fact, the top runner for the team is a freshman. "Allison Benorden has been running No. 1 in practice. I expect she'll run No. 1 in the meet and I am sure she expects to run that way," said Medford.

Rich Alsop has 25 men covering ground, including 12 freshman that illustrate a tremendous recruiting year for him.

Of the upcoming meet, Alsop said "It will be kind of a time trial-type meet, since it doesn't count for eligibility or anything. Everybody who is healthy will run."

Alsop has some weeding out to do. His talented freshman class have done well in pre-season work outs.

"In a time trial...we had ten (runners) finish real close together. Eight of those were freshman."

He was careful not to have too high of expectations over. "We'll just wait and see how they do. Right now, it looks good but we are young. You never know how you are going to run (in a meet). On paper it looks like we'll be good, but in another year we should be real strong."

Alsop has the luxury of time to look his youngsters over. "We'll start aiming at Emporia State about four weeks into the season."

The team will be cut down to a number of seven runners eventually for regionals and nationals at the end of the season. Southeast Missouri is a clear cut favorite to do well in the area according to Alsop, who expects to race for second place in the MIAA with Northeast.

Is your calculator in the same class you are?

Move up to the TI-66. The easy 512 step programmable.

You're into higher math and your old calculator helped get you there.

But now it's time for something more. The TI-66 from Texas Instruments. The TI-66 offers full programming power and flexibility so you can solve complex and repetitive math problems quickly, easily and with fewer keystrokes than you thought possible. Its 512 merged program steps and over 170 built-in scientific, engineering and statistical functions make for powerful programming. And the sleek, streamlined design makes for easy use.

Its Algebraic Operating System makes it easy on your brain by allowing you to key in problems as they are written, left to right. And a 10-digit angled Liquid Crystal Display not only makes it easy on your eyes but provides alphanumeric notation of your program steps so you can make easy modifications as you go along. There are large, readable keys for your fingers, and an easy-to-follow guidebook so you shouldn't get confused. And last, but certainly not least, at a suggested retail of $69.95, there's a price that's easy on your pocketbook.

All in all, if we made the TI-66 programmable calculator any easier to use, it would deserve its own degree.

'Cloak and Dagger' for almost any age

By Carrol Fry

It's no secret that most movies are made for the 14-30 age group. Those of riper years find little to appeal to them in many of the films targeted for younger audiences. But "Cloak and Dagger" bridges the generation chasm very nicely. It's a real popcorn special that can be enjoyed by just about any age category.

The hero of "Cloak and Dagger" is Davey Osborn, a 12-year-old who recently lost his mother. His dad is an Air Force noncom who must be away from home all day, and in his loneliness, Davey develops a vivid imagination. He takes up with an invisible friend — Jack Flack, super spy, who looks, by the way, exactly like his father. Davey becomes obsessed with spy games and fantasies, playing espionage the way most kids play cowboys and Indians and leading his long-suffering girlfriend Kim on screwball missions. Davey tells both Kim and his father about his imaginary missions with Jack, his invisible buddy. Kim takes it all patiently, while Mr. Osborn is worried about his son's head.

Then Davey sees the murder of an FBI man, committed by some real spies. Before his death, the American agent manages to give Davey a computer program that the spies desperately want. To compound matters, the bad guys know that Davey saw them, and they obviously want to do him in. Naturally, Davey runs to the police and his father for help.

But it's a classic case of crying wolf. Davey's girlfriend says, "Sure, Davey, sure," and his father not only doesn't believe the boy, but forbids any more spy games. So it's just Davey and his invisible friend Jack against the spies. The last half of the movie is a nonstop, nicely paced chase, with Davey trying to elude the baddies after he gives up on convincing anyone of his story.

Weekender review

"Cloak and Dagger" has a lot going for it. Everybody responds to a story about a threatened child, and Henry Thomas, of "E. T." fame, does a good job in bringing the character he plays to life. Dabney Coleman, surely the best character actor in films these days, plays both super spy and super dad, shifting gears flawlessly.

Also, the invisible friend character provides good dramatic conflict. Like Mr. Snuffleupagus, Big Bird's friend on "Sesame Street," Jack Flack isn't quite a mere fantasy. He's real enough to Davey, and he becomes real to the audience. But the point is that the boy learns from his experience with the super spy. Jack has no values beyond winning the "game" at all costs, which means killing off as many of the enemy as possible without compunction. After all, they're not real. Davey finds these rules fine for games, but not at all satisfying when real people are involved.

There's a lovely scene toward the end of the film when Jack, obviously enjoying the chase, devises a plan for Davey to get a gun and kill his pursuers. But Davey wants no part of real-life killing. "I don't want to play any more," he wails. He has learned the difference between fantasy and reality. Then Jack, invisible though he is, finds a way to make a target of himself to distract the killers and gets shot, a sort of symbolic death for him since Davey has rejected his fantasy.

Eventually we get a happy ending. But the film makes its moral clear. Heroism, as Davey's father tries to tell him early in the film, isn't always a matter of derring-do.

Northwest theater slates busy season

A wide range of productions are on tap for the 1984-85 theatre season at Northwest Missouri State University.

"We're very excited about our upcoming season," says Theo Ross, associate professor of theatre. "Our offerings range from the classic to contemporary, and we believe we're continuing our tradition of bringing outstanding live theatre to the four-state region."

The Northwest theatre season opens Oct. 5-7, with Stephen Vincent Benet's epic play, "John Brown's Body." This readers' theatre uncovers the agonizing days of the Civil War and the tragedy of our country at war with itself.

Performances will be presented 8 p.m. Oct. 5 and 6 and 2 p.m. Oct. 7 in the Charles Johnson Theater.

"A Texas Trilogy," the Broadway hits of 1976, will be presented on the Charles Johnson stage Nov. 13-18. "A Texas Trilogy" is three full-length plays and includes "The Last Meeting of the Knights of the White Magnolia," on Nov. 13 and 16; "LuAnn Hampton Laverly Oberlander," on Nov. 14 and 17; and "The Oldest Living Graduate," on Nov. 15 and 18.

The annual Christmas production this year will be "Storytellers," which will be presented on campus Dec. 7-9. Proceeds from the campus performances will be donated to the Maryville Daily Forum Christmas Fund.

Produced by Alpha Psi Omega National Honorary Theatre

Society, "Storytellers" also is available for private performances throughout December.

Thorton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-winning play, "Our Town," will be presented Feb. 22-24. An American theatrical classic, "Our Town" explores life's values and its joys and sorrows.

Comedy, drama and non-traditional theatre will be featured during two series of one-act plays. The one-acts will be presented March 29-31, and a second bill of one-acts will be on stage April 19-21.

For additional information, contact Dr. Ross, Department of Theatre, 562-1171. Tickets for all productions go on sale two weeks before each performance at the Charles Johnson Box Office. Ticket information is available by calling 562-1320.

Here she comes

Suzette Charles (left), Miss America for 1984, will be on hand to help Host Gary Collins crown her successor during the telecast of "The Miss America Pageant," airing Saturday, Sep. 15 on NBC.

Actress Roberts enjoys new role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — She has been a Charlie's Angel, then Sheena, Queen of the Jungle, and next she plays a James Bond beauty. So how can Tanya Roberts expect to be taken seriously as an actress?

"You need to start somewhere," she reasons. "Jane Fonda began with 'Barbarella.' I'm not at an age where producers will offer me 'Norma Rae' or 'Sophie's Choice.' When you're young and pretty you don't get 'On Golden Pond.'

"But if you keep working, good things can happen. Kim Basinger got 'The Natural' after making a James Bond movie. The same kind of thing could happen to me."

Miss Roberts, who has studied acting with Uta Hagen and Lee Strasberg, makes no excuse for starring in "Sheena," which Columbia Pictures is releasing this month. In fact, she fought like a lioness for the role.

"I told the director, John Guillermin, that I would slash my wrists if he didn't test me," she recalled at her home above the Sunset Strip. "A slight exaggeration, but that's how eager I was."

Tanya (her real name) Roberts possesses all the attributes for playing the flip side of Tarzan: slender, curved, athletic frame; flawless face; cobalt eyes that outshine Paul Newman's.

Singer Tina Turner
back big after hiatus

LONDON (AP) — Tina Turner, on the threshold of stardom again after her traumatic split in 1976 from husband and partner Ike, gave a hearty guffaw and talked about those years.

They were a "total blackout," she said, and it's taken that long to pay off the debts she ran up when she walked out on Ike in Dallas after one fight too many. She had only the clothes she was wearing, 35 cents in her pocket and a gasoline charge card.

"I'm finally back in the black," she said in a recent interview in the elegant marble and glass drawing room of the exclusive St. James' Club off London's Piccadilly.

And, she said, "There's no hard feelings."

Tina, now a feline 45, has a hot single out — Al Green's classic, "Let's Stay Together." It's fast climbing the charts. She's also made a sexy video of the tune for Music Television in the United States.

But she got nothing in her divorce from Ike after 16 years of marriage and stardom as the wild lady of soul. She gave him everything: royalties, tapes and property. The judge thought she was nuts. The guitarist had discovered her when she was 17 singing in St. Louis nightclubs.

She had to start from scratch to repay the promoters of shows that had been scrapped when she walked out.

She tried cabaret, but that was too stifling for her high-energy, gutbucket style. She returned to the road, working cheap joints and putting the pieces back together.

"Starting over on my own was rough," she said. "People didn't think I could do it without Ike. He'd controlled everything."

"But this time, I was doing it for me. The first four years, I was ... working small clubs, that sort of thing. Promoters just didn't believe I'd be a draw on my own."

The turning point was in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in 1977. She was the opening act for The Four Seasons. Soon, the offers were better.

Two years ago, Rod Stewart invited her to join his Christmas special in Los Angeles, beamed by satellite around the world, and she blew him off the stage. The Earth Mother was back.

Her solo career really took off last year when she toured Europe. Her first hit, "Let's Stay Together," was recorded with Heaven 17, a British band.

She made a triumphant return to London last December. Her dynamic stage act, all raunch, slit skirts, wild wigs and sizzling sexuality, won raves.

TV DIALOGUE

IT'S MRS. SCHNEIDER — Is Tawny Schneider, who co-anchors "The Love Report," married? If so, to whom? She is a beautiful lady. — M.E.W., Glasgow, Ky.

The former Miss America is married to John Schneider, co-star of "The Dukes of Hazzard."

Tawny Schneider

PERMANENT VACATION — "The Match Game-Hollywood Squares Hour" was taken off in our area. Is it off permanently or just given a new time slot? — K.C. Topeka, Kan.

The game shows have been canceled permanently.

FAMOUS AMOS — Is there any chance of "Amos 'n' Andy" appearing on television again? — M.C., Waterbury, Conn.

Probably not on TV, but episodes from the 1950s sitcom are available on video-cassette.

LONG TERMS — My dad and I are having an argument about which show ran the longest on TV. Was it

"M*A*S*H" or "Happy Days"? — J.T., Winchester, Va.

Actually, the longest prime-time series was "Walt Disney" in its various forms. Between the two shows you've mentioned, "M*A*S*H" has "Happy Days" beat, but not by much. "M*A*S*H" premiered in September 1972 and ended its run in the spring of 1983. "Happy Days" ran from January 1974 until the spring of 1984.

SINGER, NOT THE SONG — A friend says Michael Pare did the singing in "Eddie and the Cruisers," but I disagree. Also, are there going to be any sequels to "Streets of Fire"? — E.T., Binghamton, N.Y.

All the music in "Eddie and the Cruisers" was performed by a Rhode Island band called Beaver Brown, with the actors faking it, except for the sax player, who is Beaver Brown. There are no sequels planned for "Streets of Fire," which did not do well at the box office, but you can see Pare in his new film, "The Philadelphia Experiment."

EARLY FONDA — I saw the movie "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" when I was very young. I now seem to recall that Henry Fonda starred, but have never seen it mentioned anywhere. Am I correct? — E.D., Phelps, Wis.

Your memory serves you well. The 1936 film was one of Fonda's first roles.

Cable aids her career

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer Lorrie Morgan was sitting backstage at the Grand Ole Opry House one day when a mail clerk walked by and said: "You're getting a lot of mail, Lorrie."

The heavy mailbag was symbolic of the change in Miss Morgan's life during the past 1½ years. Before then, she was a singer on a live morning country music show on a local television station.

But since spring 1983, Miss Morgan has appeared on the Nashville Network's live evening show, "Nashville Now," which reaches an estimated 12 million cable TV households. It's a kind of country music "Tonight" show with Ralph Emery as host.

"I used to get a couple of pieces of mail a week," Miss Morgan recalled about her days in local television. "It didn't hurt the mailman to bring it to me."

Her rise to cable TV is a testament to what a famous name — and being in the right place at the right time — can do for a career.

The 25-year-old blond singer is the daughter of George Morgan, a Grand Ole Opry star who died in 1975 and who was best known for his hit, "Candy Kisses."

When the Nashville Network was launched and Mr. Emery was picked to be host of "Nashville Now," he asked the regulars on his local show to join him on the cable program. They included Darlene Austin, Tom Grant and Miss Morgan.

"I had been doing the (Mr. Emery) morning show since I was a kid," she said. "Ralph has helped my career more than anyone as far as giving me breaks."

"I didn't think I could do it," she said about the transition from local television performer to cable network entertainer.

But singing regularly on the 90-minute "Nashville Now" was the major career break that led to other achievements for the energetic singer.

She has since signed a recording contract with MCA Records and has her third single out, "If You Came Back Tonight."

She was a finalist this spring for the Academy of Country Music's most promising female vocalist.

And she has become the newest regular member of the Grand Ole Opry.

At 80, Ray Bolger still dancing

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Ray Bolger, lone survivor of the merry quartet who followed the yellow brick road, has undergone hip surgery at the age of 80 and is planning to return to work.

Every day Mr. Bolger's long-legged gait takes him around two lengthy blocks near his home. "I can walk without a limp now," he said proudly. "And I swim every day. The doctor says there's no reason I couldn't dance again. But I'm 80, and how much more dancing do I want to do?"

Ray Bolger has danced all his life. He started in his native Boston, hoofed through repertory and vaudeville, starred in Broadway shows ("On Your Toes," "By Jupiter," "Where's Charlie"), movies ("The Great Ziegfeld," "April in Paris") and television ("Where's Raymond?" "Washington Square").

But his most indelible performance came in 1939 as the scarecrow in "The Wizard of Oz." Only he and Margaret Hamilton remain of a cast that included Judy Garland, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Frank Morgan and Billie Burke.

Until a year ago, Mr. Bolger was busy giving concerts all over the country, reminiscing about his long career, singing "Once in Love With Amy" and other Mr. Bolger songs and doing his inimitable soft-shoe.

"Then one night I was doing a concert in Coronado (Calif.) on a kind of makeshift stage," he recalled. "I stepped down from the stage and there was nothing there. My right hip felt funny. I tried to do another show but I was not up to par, and I had to cancel."

A doctor who took X-rays told Mr. Bolger his hip had "just wore out," said Mr. Bolger. He underwent surgery on May 29 and has recovered amazingly fast.

The dancer talked about his long career at the Beverly Hills home he shares with his wife of 55 years, Gwen.

He was under contract to MGM while "The Wizard of Oz" was being prepared.

"I fought for the role of the scarecrow, but the word around the studio was that Buddy Ebsen was going to be cast for it," said Mr. Bolger. He eventually won the scarecrow role and Mr. Ebsen became the Tin Woodman. Because of poisoning by the metallic makeup, Mr. Ebsen was replaced by Jack Haley.

Did Mr. Bolger know he was taking part in an enduring classic?

"Not at all. I knew that I was involved in a strange kind of adventure," he said. "Everything had to be invented for the picture — the effects, the sound, the Technicolor. It was all new. But when the reviews came out, it was a terrific disappointment. The picture got terrible notices."

"It was only when the 'The Wizard of Oz' came into the home with television that it redeemed itself. Then it was no longer a picture, it was an institution. After all, 'The Wizard of Oz' carries the message that there's no place like home. After Dorothy runs away from home, she realizes what a mistake she has made."

Summer films do well

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Suspense, supernatural high jinks and sex dominated the final weekend of what is shaping up as the biggest summer in film industry history.

Clint Eastwood's "Tightrope" held first place for a third straight weekend even though its gross of $7.1 million for the four-day Labor Day holiday was slightly down from the previous three-day weekend.

But feisty "Ghostbusters" almost regained the top spot by scaring up $6.8 million, nearly $2 million more than a weekend earlier.

"Bolero," a sexually explicit adventure starring Bo Derek, scored $4.6 million in its maiden outing to replace "Red Dawn" at third place. But critics predicted a short theatrical life for the film, which was released without a rating because its raciness supposedly would have earned it an X.

The review in the trade publication Daily Variety began: "There's a real good cartoon at the Hollywood Pacific this week in which a horse does funny things with Woody Woodpecker, followed by 'Bolero' in which Bo Derek does funny things with a horse, her hair and a couple of men. Judging from the audience's reaction, the cartoon will be around longer."

The weekend's other newcomer, Tri-Star's "Flashpoint" starring Treat Williams and Kris Kristofferson, was unable to crack the top 10 with a take of $1.9 million.

Final figures for the summer aren't yet in, but most observers expect that total ticket sales for the 50-odd summer releases will surpass the $3.77 billion reported last year in Daily Variety.

TV STARS SCENE

Cliff Barnes's lifestyle of rich and famous

By Tim Boxer

How Cliff Barnes will use his new wealth and power may dominate the story line of "Dallas" during the new season. Says Ken Kercheval of his character: "I can't tell you how long that power will last. I went from zero to astronomical sums of money when I finally hit oil. I have my private vendettas with people who weren't nice to me starting, naturally, with J.R."

Now that Afton Cooper (played by the departing Audrey Landers) will be out of his hair for good, Barnes's new live-in girlfriend will be model Mandy Winger, played by former Miss USA Deborah Shelton.

Ken Kercheval

Kercheval has not had any scenes yet with Donna Reed, who has taken over the role of Miss Ellie from the ailing Barbara Bel Geddes. "In the six years of the show, I've had only six lines of dialogue with Barbara," says Kercheval. "I mentioned that to Donna. We agreed to talk to the producer and see if we can't do some scenes together."

Alexander H. Cohen is absolutely delighted that his Tony Awards special received four Emmy nominations. The show was cited for writing, directing, choreography and best variety special. "We deserved every one of them," the producer says.

He has instructed his colleagues that if they win on Sept. 23 when the Emmy Awards are telecast live on CBS, they should limit their acceptance speeches to 10 words. Cohen has always pleaded with winners on the Tony show to keep their speeches under 30 seconds but no one ever listens.

BOXER SHORTS: Linda Lavin, returning to "Alice" for what may turn out to be its last year, admits "I don't watch TV myself." ... Mickey Spillane was so excited that his "Mike Hammer" returned to the tube that he rushed out to Alex Furs in New York's garment center and splurged on a full-length Blackglama mink coat plus hat for his wife Jane... Don Johnson and Philip Michael Thomas use rough, streetwise language in NBC's new action series, "Miami Vice." Viewers might need a glossary to follow the dialogue... The "retired" Walter Cronkite is hard at work on a one-hour special on the plight of the blue-collar worker in America. He recently hosted a CBS documentary retrospective on former president Harry S. Truman.

Epic story

Martin Sheen (left) portrays a journalist who befriends the beloved spiritual and political leader Mahatma Gandhi (right, played by Ben Kingsley) in "Ghandi," on HBO this month. Mr. Kingsley won an Oscar for best actor for his performance in Richard Attenborough's acclaimed epic.

Eurythmics hit road on crest of success

NEW YORK (AP) — Annie Lennox, lean and lithe, was in no mood for chatter as she huddled on a worn sofa in an office at RCA Records. But her musical partner, Dave Stewart, eyes hidden behind sunglasses, was a talking machine extraordinaire.

Together, as the British musical marvel, the Eurythmics, Miss Lennox and Mr. Stewart have been dazzling American audiences with their magical melodies and an ensemble of 10 during a six-month tour.

They were understandably tired as they stopped in New York for a recent concert. Miss Lennox, in fact, was hoarse — partly from singing her soul out on such songs as "Sweet Dreams (Are Made of This)," "Here Comes the Rain Again" and "Love Is a Stranger," and partly from an interview overdose.

Her hair was close-cropped blond instead of orange spikes. She wore little makeup, which allowed her gentle, almost lyrical beauty to show. But her bare feet shouted neon pink toes. And instead of sporting the androgynous costumes the media loves her to wear, she had clothed herself in a simple black sleeveless shift with a rope of pearls.

The 29-year-old artist appeared with Boy George of Culture Club on a Newsweek magazine cover earlier this year on the androgyny trend. And during February's Grammy Awards presentation, Miss Lennox chose to wear a '50s ducktail wig complete with sideburns, don a man's suit and wear a moustache over her lip.

But the music is hardly frivolous. There's a sweetness in life — and also decay — as their first Eurythmics record, "In the Garden," explores.

"What we tried to do was make music about reality," Mr. Stewart said. "A lot of groups make music about fabricated reality. A lot of people live outside reality."

Miss Lennox joined in: "Some people seem to be very comfortable in their lives, they don't ask many questions about their existence."

Though the Eurythmics were nominated as best new artists — losing out to Culture Club — they have been around for some time. Miss Lennox first worked with Mr. Stewart in 1977 when they had the band, the Tourists.

Widows file civil suits against county

Defendants in a lawsuit filed by Johnetta Morgan gave depositions June 26. County Court Judges Ed Dobbins, Lewis "Bud" Blackney and Bob McGinness, Sheriff Danny Estes, Roy Morales-Kuhn and another jailer are accused of negligence in the suit said David Baird, Nodaway County prosecuting attorney.

Other men accused in the suit are Rodney Rankau, Michael Bears, Harry Justus Jr. and Thomas McClurg for depriving Wallace Morgan of his federal civil rights.

Morgan filed the $54 million suit last spring on behalf of her husband who was beaten to death July of 1983 in the county jail while serving a weekend term.

Prosecuting Attorney David Baird filed a motion to dismiss the $6 million lawsuit filed by the widow of Ken Rex McElroy. Although the suit is still in federal court Baird said the dismissals were for the state level.

Trena McElroy claims that Nodaway County, the city of Skidmore, Sheriff Danny Estes and Del Clement violated her late husband's civil rights because of the unsolved murder.

McElroy was shot and killed in his pick-up in Skidmore in July of 1981. His wife was with him at the time. No one was ever charged with the death.

Corpse of Pickering man found

PICKERING--The decomposed body of a Pickering man was found in a ditch July 7 by the Nodaway County Sheriff's Department and the Missouri Highway Patrol according to a article in August 7 issue of the Maryville Daily Forum.

Officials ruled the death of Leonard McCombs of Pickering as a homicide. The Daily Forum reports that McCombs died from a single gunshot wound in the chest.

Two men have been charged with conspiracy to commit murder. Rickie L. Stanton of Pickering was released on $15,000 bond. Stanton pleaded innocent to the charge. His trial is set for Oct. 29 according to the Daily Forum. Joe Rogers of Skidmore was released after posting $25,000 bond.

Gaunt Home requires boiler repairs

NORTHWEST--The university's Thomas Gaunt House, the president's home since the 1905 founding of the school, must undergo significant repair work before Northwest's new president, Dr. Dean L. Hubbard, and his family can move in. The repair work, according to Vice President for Environmental Affairs Dr. Robert Bush, may not be completed until January of 1985.

Bush said that during the fall semester's replacement of the Gaunt House's badly-deteriorating heating and cooling systems, President Hubbard and his family will be living at 3 Elm Square in a residence just south of the Olive DeLuce Fine Arts Building.

Inspection of the 25-year-old heating and cooling systems revealed the cause of the problem to be the boiler system which is incapable of being repaired again due to extreme deterioration. Circulation pipes and convection units were also found to be in "terrible condition," Bush said.

Financing of the repairs will be from capital appropriations received by the university in the state's 1984-85 budget allocation.

DR. DEAN HUBBARD speaks to graduates at summer commencement.

Hubbard assumes role of president

Dr. Dean L. Hubbard, the ninth president of Northwest Missouri State University who assumed his office on August 1 replacing Dr. Owens who resigned last spring, made his first public appearance as speaker at Northwest's summer commencement.

Speaking to some 240 summer baccalaureate, master's and specialist degree candidates assembled for the evening ceremonies in Lamkin Gymnasium, Dr. Hubbard celebrated day 10 of his presidency by telling his listeners that they can avoid the loss of momentum later in their lives by "maintaining a clear sense of purpose," by "active mental involvement in whatever task you commit your life to," by attaining the "ability to view life and the world in broad perspective," and by maintaining an "unashamed commitment to deeper values."

The man who comes to Northwest from the presidency of Union College in Lincoln, Neb., said "we must set meaningful goals for our lives and not allow ourselves to engage in any activity that will compromise that broader purpose."

He said that those who continue to achieve and be productive are willing to "take a fresh look at each day's experience and are always eager and willing to learn."

CONT

5 years later: Northwest stands tall af fire sweeps Administration Building

Sights etched in memories

BY BONNIE CORRICE
Features Editor

The date was July 24, 1979.
A crowd of Maryville residents and Northwest faculty and administrators watched firemen battle a raging fire in the university's Administration Building. The sights and emotions felt that night are forever etched in their memories.

"It was sad, so sad, to watch a part of the community and campus burn like that," Donna Cash, a Maryville resident, said, recalling that night. "Watching it burn, we knew it would be difficult to make the building what it once had been."

Difficult? Perhaps. But residents and university people rallied to begin the task.

The rallying process began as the fire continued to burn out of control. Students, faculty, administrators and other volunteers tossed records and files out of broken windows to safety. Staff and administrators evacuated computer equipment from the first floor as the fire burned two stories above them. Meetings were held all over campus to assess the damage and make both immediate and long-range plans for recovery.

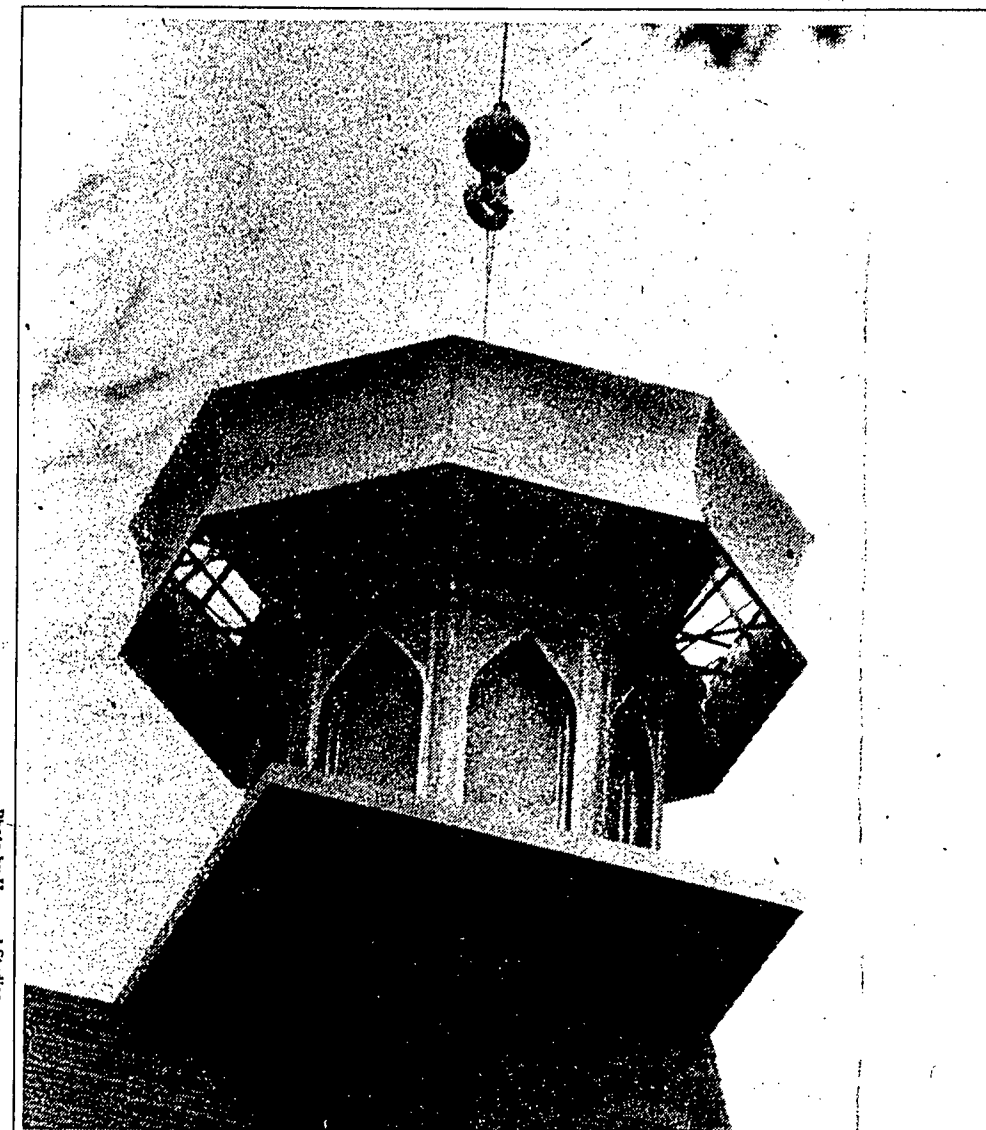

The damage was great. The recently remodeled Deerwester Theatre on the north side of the building was destroyed. The third and fourth floors of the west wing were destroyed. The remainder of the building suffered extensive smoke and water damage. In all, some 60 percent of the 70-year-old campus landmark was destroyed. Amazingly, no one was seriously injured.

Shiny copper ventilators top completion of restoration

Northwest held ceremonies June 12 to commemorate the completion of the Administration Building reconstruction. The structure was 60 percent destroyed by a fire in July of 1979.

A year ago, Lawrence Hummel of Hamburg, Iowa, was commissioned by Northwest to recreate the huge and intricate copper ventilators.

Hummel, a sheet metal worker since 1948, said the ventilators were the kind of job you want to prove to yourself. "It (the construction) will be the crowning achievement of my professional life," said Hummel.

Because of contractors' lack of interest in the construction and the cost, the Northwest Alumni publication ran the problem in an issue to see if there was an alumnus who had the skill and interest to do the job. Hummel's son sent the article to his father who finally applied for the job.

"I thought they would be small ventilators, but when I got out of my car near the Administration Building and looked at those on the east wing, I almost turned around when I realized how big they were," said Hummel.

In a meeting between Hummel and Dr. Robert Bush, vice-president of environmental development, it was agreed that Hummel would build three identical copper ventilator structures.

Each 2,000 pound ventilator measures 11 feet tall and is 9'6" across at the widest point of its octagonal shape. The ventilator sets on a 5'8" base built during the re-roofing of the Administration Building.

The skeleton of each ventilator structure contains roughly 1,200 pounds of wood framing. Hummel fashioned an 800 pound covering of copper sheeting around the framing.

Hummel also constructed a small model of the ventilator which is placed in the main hallway of the Administration Building.

Fire

was safe to re-enter, a large contingent of volunteers began to remove salvageable items from the building. Jane Costello, assistant professor of education, was among those.

"I remember when I found out about the fire that my first thoughts were for the radio station people," she said.

Radio stations KXCV-FM and KDLX were severely hit. The studios were completely destroyed. Rollie Stadlman, director of broadcasting, remembers the scene and a bit of inspiration.

"It was very emotional. I turned my back from the fire and as I did, I saw the transmitter still there, blinking away as though nothing had happened. I thought, 'well, we still have the transmitter. We can get back on the air.' I also knew that I had two of the best engineers in the country in Warren Stucki and Larry Lewellen," Stadlman said.

Larry Lewellen," Stadlman said.

Stucki, Lewellen, along with faculty and students set about relocating the stations. O'Riley Brothers Construction of Maryville loaned a trailer and area radio stations responded with equipment.

We started cleaning the trailer and getting ready to transmit from it," Stucki said. "I had been in a fire situation before and that experience started coming back to me as the night went on."

By 3:30 a.m., July 25, KXCV was hooked up and ready for a test. At 6:30 a.m., the station signed on, business as usual. Today, however, the radio stations, television studios and much of the speech department continues to be affected by that half-decade-ago fire. These university programs continue to be housed in temporary quarters awaiting the renovation of Wells Hall.

Dr. John Rickman, director of computing services, said luck was on the side of computing services that night.

"We didn't lose much equipment and most of the computer equipment started back up and ran," Rickman said. "We had a lot of high pressure work in reconnecting the network in Garret-Strong, and the support systems such as air-conditioning and telephones were difficult to reinstate rapidly."

The home economics department

"My first thoughts were for the radio station people."

Jane Costello

also was relocated around the campus but the ten kitchens remained in the Administration Building. That department's faculty and students were the only persons using the building for nearly three years.

"It would have been difficult to move the kitchens since that would have involved a great deal of plumbing and electrical work," Dr.

Francis Shipley, chairman of the home economics department said. "Overall, we were most fortunate."

Dr. Theo Ross, associate professor of theatre also considered himself fortunate, although everything in his office was destroyed. Among the books, photographs and pieces of art was six years of research for his doctoral dissertation.

"I had been working on my dissertation in the office," he explained. "But for some reason on the night of the fire I decided to take my rough draft home." As a result, Dr. Ross didn't have to duplicate much of the research.

He also helped regroup forces two weeks after the fire as the theatre department presented, as scheduled, the dramas "The Lesson" and "The Bald Soprano." No small feat, since the only things left, said Ross, were a couple of flats and two chairs.

Through it all, Dr. Ross believes good evolved from the tragedy. "In adversity there is strength," Ross said. "The intangible benefit was the spirit and enthusiasm felt by pulling together. Tangible benefits would include the new performing arts center and the library."

Bob Henry, public relations officer, summed up the fire's effects five years later.

"Certainly, July 24, 1979 was not a blessing at the time, but it has turned out to be a blessing because the University, General Assembly and others were far sighted."

Today, a parking lot is on the sight of the old theatre. Shiny copper ventilators sit atop the rebuilt west wing. A new performing arts center nears completion and a new library with its glass entrance reflects the Administration Building. They're all tangible reminders of the night of July 24, 1979.
